

CALIFORNIA PROTECTS THE CIVIL RIGHTS OF IMMIGRANTS

FACT SHEET

DFEH

The Department of Fair Employment and Housing (DFEH) is California's civil rights agency. DFEH enforces the state's robust laws against discrimination and harassment in employment, housing, business establishments, and state-funded programs and activities, as well as laws against bias-motivated violence and human trafficking. DFEH is committed to ensuring that all Californians, regardless of immigration status, can live free from discrimination.

EMPLOYMENT

You are protected from being fired from your job, harassed at work, treated worse than co-workers with the same job, and other forms of discrimination, because of your race, ethnicity, ancestry, national origin, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, disability, religion, age (40 and over), and certain other characteristics. In addition, there are certain protections related to immigration status, citizenship, and language.

EXAMPLES OF UNLAWFUL DISCRIMINATION:

- National Origin/Ancestry. "My employer treats employees from a particular country (or a particular ancestry) worse than employees originally from the United States, even though we do the same job and have more experience."
- Harassment. "My co-workers regularly say derogatory things about immigrants and people originally from the country where I was born, and my employer refuses to do anything to stop it."
- English Only. "My employer told me I have to speak English, even when I'm on break and even though, during work time, there is no business reason for this rule."
- Accent. "My employer treats me unfairly because I speak English with an accent, even though my co-workers and our customers understand me perfectly."
- Retaliation. "My employer threatened to call immigration authorities on me because I complained about harassment I was experiencing on the job."
- Immigration Inquiries. An employer may not look into an applicant's or employee's immigration status, unless the employer must do so to comply with federal immigration law.
- Citizenship Requirements. Citizenship requirements are unlawful if a pretext for discrimination or have the purpose or effect of discriminating against applicants or employees on the basis of national origin or ancestry, unless pursuant to a permissible defense.
- For more information about immigration, citizenship, and language issues in employment, see California Code of Regulations, Title 2, Section 11028.

If you have been the subject of unlawful employment discrimination, you may be entitled to back pay, front pay, reinstatement, and other remedies.

PROGRAMS AND SERVICES ADMINISTERED OR FUNDED BY CALIFORNIA

Any program or service that is run by California or receives government funding must obey certain civil rights laws. While some of these programs and services may not be available to all immigrants, none may discriminate against applicants and beneficiaries on the basis of race, ethnicity, ancestry, national origin, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, disability, religion, or certain other characteristics.

EXAMPLES OF UNLAWFUL DISCRIMINATION

- “Even though I’m eligible for a program for young mothers and families in need, the organization that runs the program turned me away because of my ethnicity. The program is funded by state money.”
- “The public school where my children go to school would not let my children play extracurricular sports because of our ancestry.”
- “A hospital that takes Medi-Cal treated me unfairly because I am originally from another country.”

Any state-funded program or activity that unlawfully discriminates could lose some or all of its state funding, and the victim of the discrimination may be entitled to other remedies.

HUMAN TRAFFICKING

California law protects everyone, regardless of immigration status, from human trafficking, which is the exploitation of human beings through force, fraud, or coercion for the purposes of commercial sex or forced labor. It is an unlawful employment practice for an employer or other covered entity to use force, fraud, or coercion to compel the employment of, or subject to adverse treatment, applicants or employees on the basis of national origin.

In addition, if you are the victim of human trafficking or many other crimes, you may qualify for a U or T visa if you cooperate with law enforcement to prosecute those crimes.
